TAKING OF CENSUS OF 1910 BEGINS IN CITY AND COUNTRY

Enumerators Employed by Uncle Sam Began Work of Gathering Information Today.

Today in this city and throughout the entire country the taking of the government census was begun and will continue through the next fifteen days, by which time the count in all the cities must be completed. To count the people in the entire United States or in our own city, is no small task and to those to whom the task has been assigned, as much aid as is possible should be given, that the count may be true and accurate. The enumerators will wear a badge inscribed "United States Census, 1910," and the law requires that each adult person should furnish the prescribed information. The information thus given is strictly confidential and the facts will have nothing to do with taxation, army or jury service, compulsory school attendance, regulation of immigration, or enforcement of any law.

It is of great importance that the census of the city should be complete and correct in every detail. A great deal of time and embarrassment might be saved to the people and the census commissioner, if a memorandum, with answers to the following questions be made out:

Full name of head of the family?
Full name of every member of the family, children according to their ages. (Married children will be enumerated at their homes.) Opposite names—age, and state in which each person listed was born? State in which father and mother were born? Number of years married?

If the persons named in this list were born in a foreign country name the country and not the place where birth occurred. If the father and mother were born abroad, the name of the country; the date of their removal to the United States; whether they are naturalized or not and if so,
the date of receiving their papers should also be made of any person, a resident of Janesville, who is rooming in your home, or an employee who sleeps in your house. Other questions which the enumerator will ask can be more readily answered.

Eight residents of this city have been appointed to take the census of Janesville. The enumerators and the territory to which they have been assigned are:

Janesville city—part of ward 1—
George H. Davy.
Janesville city—part of ward 2—
Fred N. Blakely.
Janesville city—part of ward 2—
Mrs. Chas. J. Myhr.
Janesville city—part of ward 3—
Gardner Kavelange.
Janesville city—part of ward 3—
Mrs. Lillian Eddy.
Janesville city—part of ward 4—
W. J. Jones.
Janesville city—part of ward 4—
Will Schmitt.
Janesville city—ward 5—Geo. T.
Croft.

Enjoyed.

"Thelma," the dramatization of the novel by Marie Corelli, was very competently produced at the Myers' theatre last evening by the members of the Franklin Stock company which is appearing here in repertoire this week. The play follows closely the lines of the story and is full of human interest. The principal roles were taken by Miss Florence Cutler, as "Thelma"; Claude Kimball as Sir
Philip Berlington; Frank Dure, as Old Guldmann; and Harry Connors as George Lorimer. Between-act specialities won favor with the audience.
This evening the company will appear in "Marching Through Georgia."

PLUMBER'S WORK AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN PUBLIC HEALTH

Interesting Paper at Social Meeting of Carroll Council, K. of C., By Fred Schmitt Last Night.

That the plumber as a factor in maintaining the health of a community is next to or equal in importance to the doctor and that sanitary plumbing means the elimination of the causes of zymotic diseases, was the substance of an address given last night by Fred Schmitt before Carroll Council, Knights of Columbus, and their guests from Beloit at a social meeting held last night. The meeting was much enjoyed by all present.
The principal address in particular,
as Mr. Schmitt had devoted much time and thought to the preparation of his paper and brought out the importance of sanitary plumbing in an interesting and forceful manner.

The subject itself, for the reason that every household is interested in this important factor of house building and legislation is now being urged for the inspection of all plumbing and the licensing of all plumbers to preserve the public health, was very timely. Mr. Schmitt's address was as follows:

"Sanitary plumbing deals with house-drainage, the ventilation of pipes and fixtures and stands in close relationship to the health of the people than any other art of science.
The germ theory of disease and the fact that the microbe can be prevented from germinating places sanitary plumbing among the chief factors in all measures for the prevention and removal of disease.

Diseases arising from unsanitary conditions are known as zymotic and include cancer, consumption, nearly all the diseases of childhood, epidemic, blood-poisoning, insanity and degeneration of the brain and other vital organs. It is estimated that these diseases annually cause the death of half a million people.

"Medical science claims that the reckless, careless and ignorant disposal of human waste is the most dangerous source of disease. It therefore becomes necessary that this waste be quickly removed. The underground sewer is the safest means of disposal but sewers necessarily cause and cause the diseases mentioned before.

"Sewer gas then, must be confined and this is the object of sanitary plumbing. It is impossible however, without the aid of city and state sanitary laws. Sanitary plumbing can prevent the ingress of sewer gas. It can prevent the soil from becoming impregnated with dangerous moisture and for those reasons sanitary plumbing should be demanded and enforced by state and city legislation.

"The trap is the only protection against the ingress of sewer gas known to sanitary science. It is a crook or bend in lead or brass pipe for the detention of water, which forming a pocket, obstructs the passage of sewer gas. To prevent ship-barges, air must be admitted to the trap to equalize the atmospheric pressure. No matter how properly the trap may be back vented (which is the only use for admitting air to the trap) it may lose its seal by evaporating or other causes and for that reason, it is very essential that care be given to plumbing apparatus for even if the seal of the trap should not be destroyed the fanning of the water must be avoided by regular flushing of the fixtures.

"In the house drainage system, air circulation must be maintained to relieve the pressure of sewer gas on the seal of the trap, for under un-sufficient pressure, sewer gas will enter the lowest vented soil. A fresh air inlet is the method to secure air circulation in the house sewer which should be run in as direct a line as possible from the street sewer to the highest point of the roof. All house sewers or drains should have a fall or pitch of not less than one foot in fifty. All plumbing fixtures, properly vented and trapped, should discharge into this main line of sewer.
All changes in direction of this pipe should be made with not less than one-eighth bends.

"The joints in cast iron soil pipe should be packed with calcium and filled with molten lead and thoroughly enclosed. Under no circumstances should such joints be made with cement. All connections of lead with cast iron pipe should be made with brass or combination ferrule, one end called into the iron pipe and the other end joined to the lead pipe by a welded joint. Before the fixtures are set, the entire line of house soil pipe should be left exposed for inspection and test as a provision against defective joints. The main soil pipe which extends through the roof should be increased at least one inch in diameter going through the roof. Closets, bath tubs, and lavatories can be vented into the main stack of soil pipe if the vent connection is made from two to four feet above the highest fixture discharging into it.

"Waste pipes from ice boxes should not connect direct with the soil pipe.
Kitchen sinks should be connected with grease traps for grease should never be allowed to enter the drainage system. These traps should be cleaned at least once a week.

Great care should be taken in the setting and selecting of plumbing fixtures. There should be no woodwork or enamel around sinks, tubs or lavatories. Cheap and defective closets cause great expense for repairs, are dangerous to health and are responsible for a great deal of water waste.
Sanitary science has made more improvements in closet building in recent years than in any of her line of plumbing apparatus.

"There is now no use for the selection of defective closets. The penalty provided by the plumbing laws in a great many cities for installing plumbing without a license shows that it is becoming recognized that the plumbing work of a building is of more importance than the general public has heretofore believed or realized. It is a deplorable fact, however, that there are some places where plumbing can be installed by anyone, even a scab. There are no regulations governing its installation or inspection.

"Whether or not the owner of property has the right to install his own plumbing is a question that has often arisen in my mind because of the old saying that a man's house is his castle. In a great many cities, if plumbing is installed by any other than a licensed plumber, the work will be inspected by the proper official and the case reported as a violation of the city ordinances. The penalty varies in different but usually is a fine of not less than $10 or more than $100, in some cities the penalty is a $50 fine and one year imprisonment.

"First of all, we should have good regulations. Every plumber should be required to take out a license and his work should be inspected. Until this is done, there is always going to be more or less bad work installed, disease germs will breed, and the death rate will be very high.

"The average property owner has no knowledge of sanitation in plumbing, neither has he the mechanical skill necessary to do the same. I therefore do not see why the owners of a house should be allowed to do plumbing work in his own house any more than he would be allowed to do the same class of work in other homes.
The main fact of his being a property owner should not give him the right to construct work which would most probably be the cause of destroying life for a mistake on his part might permit the entrance of sewer gas into the house and destroy human life.

"Now, if any, people outside the profession realize what an important part the plumber lays in the maintenance of the public health and the well being of the community in general. If you take the average individual in any of our cities would be as great or a greater calamity than the visit of an earthquake, a destructive fire or a financial crash, your statement would be ended at, but such is the case.

"The importance of the plumber's occupation, trade or profession, call it what you will, can not be overestimated. It should properly be styled profession because it is just as important, if not more so, than that of the doctor. While doctors aim to cure disease, plumbers try to prevent its occurrence.

"Perfect sanitation is the corner stone of public health for it means the prevention of zymotic diseases.
Perfect sanitation is only possible with perfect plumbing. Right now the prevalence of infectious diseases, particularly in the smaller towns and outlying districts, is appalling.

"Doctors fight the disease and apply their medical skill and learning in an effort to cure victims, but it falls to the plumber to remove the cause and remedy the trouble by modern sanitary methods and effective plumbing and workmanship. The plumber's work is not seen and therefore is not appreciated as much as it would be if it were exposed to view.
His work is under ground and hidden from sight. A leaky pipe, an imperfect connection or a faulty sewer under a house would be a certain breeder of disease in the household.

"A more responsible or important duty than that which the plumber has to fulfill, can not be imagined.
His work must be perfect, absolutely flawless. The health and very life of a family are dependent on the efficiency of his work. No drainage system, no plan of sanitation, however cleverly planned and constructed, would serve its purpose if the plumbing were not done expertly. It is up to the plumber. His work should show his appreciation of the importance of being a plumber."

ST. LOUIS AMERICANS.
Jack O'Connor, Manager.

As successor of Jimmy McAleer as manager of the St. Louis Americans during the coming season, is Jack O'Connor, veteran catcher. And there are a few other jobs in baseball just a bit more desirable than the task laid for him of pulling the Browns out of the mire. Ever since McAleer took hold of the St. Louis club, in 1902, there have been hopes of penning down in Missouri. There is nothing doing as yet and will not be this season, although O'Connor can be expected to bring the club a little higher, although the first division in the American circuit this season will be just a little crowded without him. In only one year since St. Louis took the place in the American has the club been a first division outfit. This was in 1908, when at one time it looked as though the Browns might have serious designs on the pennant.

This season O'Connor finds himself with the remnants of the Browns of other years, and many of them on the shady side of their baseball career, with such pitchers as Howell, Pelly and Waddell.
In the outfield there are George Stone, star batsman of 1907; Schweitzer, who has shown well the past two seasons; Demmitt, secured from New York; Hoffmann, a holdover from 1909; and Fisher, a recruit. During the winter Bill Abstein was secured from Pittsburgh to play first; Olson is practically sure of his job at second to succeed Jimmy Williams, with Bobby Wallace again back at short and Hurt-

WHAT THEY THINK.

The Christian Science Monitor takes the following view of the Cannon incident in congress and the attitude of the regular republicans to the speaker's bitter denunciation of the insurgents. While the Cannon incident is only a part and parcel of the great game of politics that is being played in Washington and the Gazette does not endorse all that the Monitor says, still the statements made and the conclusions reached are interesting to note as the Monitor's editor has read the opinions of the press generally and drawn his conclusions from their verdict.

"Commenting in Washington dispatches upon Speaker Cannon's latest challenge to the insurgents, the New York Tribune expresses regret that he has not become reconciled to the situation, and concludes a lengthy reference to the episode by saying that many of his sincerest and most loyal friends are chagrined that it is on the magnanimity of the insurgents—who refuse to be goaded by the speaker's taunts—that they must depend for the success of this session of congress and the reelection of the next house.

"It has been intimated more than once that Speaker Cannon would welcome a widening of the breach between the regulars and the insurgents, and that this is really what he is trying to bring about, and while the more conservative among the regulars may not, and probably do not, approve his course, it should not be forgotten that he was enthusiastically applauded on the republican side while making the attack of Monday. And it is also well to bear in mind that the regulars are coming to regard a loss of the house, which might be precipitated by a widening of the breach between the factions, with considerable complacency, and almost with pleasurable expectancy.

"This fact is brought out with clearness and force by one of the most stalwart among the republican newspapers of the west, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, a newspaper that is uncompromising in its hostility to the insurgents. If the republican party fights insurgency in 1910, it says, it may lose the house of representatives, but it will have a fair prospect of regaining the house and retaining the presidency in 1912. On the other hand, if the republican party should surrender to insurgency it would not only lose the house this year, but would lose both house and presidency two years hence. This is the situation, and the party will face it fearlessly.

"It is quite proper that those who are giving attention to the present interesting political complication should understand how the regulars of the stalwart school in the republican party regard the situation, and how they will, in all probability, continue to regard it. This understanding will shed light upon the tactics of Speaker Cannon and upon moves yet to be made in congress which might otherwise seem mysterious. When it is realized that compromise and harmony under present circumstances are not desired by the great body of the republicans in congress, but, rather, that what is sought is a 'fight to a finish,' the delicacy, the insecurity, the almost impossibility of President Taft's position will be better appreciated. Possibly, concludes the Globe-Democrat, after discussing the case very fully, 'a halt is about to come in the long series of republican triumphs. Perpetuity or immortality is not vouchsafed to an earthly institution or party. But whether defeat or victory is in store for us, the republican party will, in 1910, fight under the same flag as that under which Lincoln, Grant, McKinley and other republican chiefs of state fought and won.

"This, of course, is only another way of announcing that unquestioning and unswerving loyalty will be demanded of those who seek and obtain preeminence through the organization, and that the fight against insurgency in our time will be waged as bitterly as was the fight against liberalism and muckraking in other days. The question is, how will the people take it?"

STRIKE ENDS.

The street car employees' strike in Philadelphia has ended. The strikers have voted to accept the terms offered them by the company and peace is to be restored. Since February 10th, when the first trouble began, there has been continual strife between the authorities, the striking car men and other labor agitators, who brought outside unions into the fracas of the Philadelphia traction lines. Twenty-eight persons lost their lives through street car accidents and many others have been maimed. It has been a long and costly fight, not only to the street car company and to the employees, but also to the city of Philadelphia. It has stirred up labor troubles throughout the country and unsettled business conditions. That the strike has been ended, that the men are to return to work and peace has been restored is pleasing news.

STRANGE STATEMENTS.

While John Strange, present lieutenant governor of Wisconsin and aspirant for the gubernatorial nomination on the republican ticket, stands on a purely county option platform, still he makes a statement in a joint debate on live issues of the campaign that does not think that the county option question will enter the state political fight to any extent. This is a strange statement to be made even by Mr. Strange and the liquor elements are wondering what it signifies. Strange will poll a large per cent of the county option votes of the state and what he means is doubtful to fathom. However, we must still hear from Mr. Lewis, who also has a county option plank in his platform, and from Senator Barker who is strong for the law. Then, perhaps, it can be understood more fully and the voters draw their own conclusion.

THE CENSUS ENUMERATORS.

Today the census enumerators have begun their fifteen day rush to count all of Uncle Sam's children, get their names, their ages, and the other facts that the authorities at Washington think essential for the enumerations of the population. It is to be hoped that the citizens of Rock county will see fit to aid these enumerators in every way possible so that the county can take the place it should when the final figures are counted.

Well, the woman suffragettes who have assembled in Washington showed their most deadly weapon when they asked the president because he said something that did not please their fancy at their meeting last evening. At the same time they did not help their cause to any great extent by so doing.

Only a poor, misguided, weak-minded comet would refuse to appear when all the civilized world is watching for it so earnestly. Perhaps, however, it is ashamed to find that it has no tail when tails are known to be just the latest style for comets this season.

It is to be expected that now that the Interstate commerce commission have lowered the prices of the upper berths in sleeping cars the Pullman company will start building cars without any upper berths so that it can continue to charge full fare for all passengers who ride.

Day before yesterday we were told that the expedition which climbed Mount McKinley failed to find any trace of Dr. Cook and this morning's dispatches announce that an old guide who was with Dr. Cook says it is impossible for the present expedition to have climbed the mountain at all at this time of the year. "Well, somebody lied."

This cause of insurgency is the greatest advertising card that the congressman who seeks chautauqua engagements could have thought out. Think of the yards and yards of press notices he can show to the managers.

they are up against when they have to conform to the intricate American idea of justice for rich and poor.

Porto Maurizio, Italy has proclaimed Roosevelt as the next president of the United States. However, it is not unanimous as the average Italian in America has a vote and from the present indication Taft sounds as good to him as does Roosevelt.

This epidemic of house-cleaning that has struck Janesville has even extended to the streets and it is learned with pleasure that some of the mud holes in the city are to be filled up and really made passable.

Heart to Heart.

Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

LIKE SHEEP.

Out in Wyoming a big flock of sheep was grazing on a mountain side near a deep canyon. The herder was taking a nap.

Tempted by the grass below, a venturesome wether jumped down to a ledge on the side of the canyon. The ledge would not hold more than a half dozen sheep.

Sheeplike, another made the jump and then another.

And, sheeplike, those in the rear crowded those in front, and those in front jumped because the others jumped.

In a few minutes almost the entire flock had gone over. There was a bruised, bloody mass at the bottom of the canyon.

"That is the way of sheep. And there is a sheep quality in human nature which tends to a like following of leadership, impulsively and without question.

You can see it in operation in politics, in religion, in business, in society. The politician is especially expert in using the sheep disposition. He has a way of getting the representative men of the community, "the bellwethers," and the crowd obediently follow behind his leader.

A man is accused of a crime. A crowd surrounds him. Some one cries out, "lynch him!" Innocent or guilty, the man is in imminent danger because the mob spirit has been evoked.

Did you ever read "The Crowd?"

The book is a study of the sheep disposition of humans—the psychology of the public mind.

Shrewd advertisers, says the author, take advantage of us by means of a false and repetition—that is to say, they publish a thing over and over again until we believe it.

The village gossip uses a like method in an evil manner. She starts a rumor or enlarges one. In its journey it grows into slander by affirmation and repetition.

In the outcome some one's reputation is ruined.

The New York and tailors of Paris and New York know how to use the sheeplike disposition of the human mind for profit. They set the styles, start out the leaders, and, sheeplike, the people follow and buy.

Do not be a sheep.

Do your own thinking.

If you follow a leader to save you know where he leads.

Do not jump into a canyon because some one else has jumped—maybe to his destruction.

Uncle Walt

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

BY WALT MASON.

(Copyright, 1909, by George Mathew Adams.)

I said: "I'll take Bacchus and drive him twenty miles; he's always pawing in the barn, and puts on lots of style; he's suffering for exercise, he's eager for the road, and he will fairly fly the reins away!" I hitched him up and started off; he fairly split the wind, and I was full of harmless pride, and held the reins and grined.

The charger trotted half a mile as though from mortal dread, and then he lost all interest, and seemed extremely tired. I wore out half a dozen reins, and urged him to go fast; in vain! he lagged along the road and watched the snails whizz past; I pushed him on the homeward road for many a weary verst, and then I sold him to a friend, and now his wretched just like that fawning steed; they go to work as though they'd make their eager fingers bleed; they feed and sweat and paw the ground, and make an awful din, but when the midday heat comes on, their energy's all in.

I like the good old steady horse that plods along his way, as though determined that he'll earn his lodging and his hay; I like the quiet, earnest man, who buckles to his job without the sort of useless fuss that captivates the swab.

PRESS COMMENT.

The Steal Town.
Pittsburg, besides being the home of graft, seems to be the place where everything exciting happens.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Exciting, true, and also sensational, but not uplifting.

Interesting as a fairy tale, but hardly instructive or reliable.

Poor Advice.
Col. Roosevelt is to address the Italians on conservation. He might tell them how to conserve some of their more desirable emigrants at home.—Shoeborn Journal.

Which would be unfortunate for the United States. The present crop of "Dagoes" is bad enough, without conservation.

Bob's Revenge.
Mr. Wickerson will read "Bob" out of the party if "Bob" isn't careful.—Herald News.

If he does, Bob will probably get him in a corner and talk him to death.

Not A Prophet.
The fact that Dr. Ir. Hicks, the long range weather forecaster, has been elected mayor of his town seems to contradict the proverb about a prophet not being without honor save among his own people.—Milwaukee News.

The proverb has not been contradicted. A prophet is defined as "one who foretells events." Has the doctor over done that?

Who Knows?
James A. Patten says the crop yield this year is going to be small, James J. Hill says it is going to be bigger than ever. Perhaps in both cases the wish is father to the thought.—Appleton Post.

Then who is to be believed? The U. S. Department of Agriculture?

Tale of the Comet.
The astronomers give the public fair warning not to sit up late on account of the comet. It has lost its tail and cannot be seen excepting with a good telescope at present so that all anxiety over missing the sight can be dispelled till in May. But if the traveler has lost its much decoration it will not be of much interest, anyhow.—Blackford Register-Gazette.

Just about as much use looking at it as at a tailless kangaroo or listening to a pointless joke.

Calling For Help.
The Milwaukee Journal is now making its final desperate scream of the thing about the regeneration of the Democratic party in that city and the state, plans for which it has been carefully working out for the past four years. The effect is not felt here, according to the half dozen "fair-minded" bourgeois left us.—Herald Free Press.

With the socialist in control of the municipal administration and boasting that they will elect two congressmen, the Journal's "scream" sounds more like an agonized wail.

Just Tally.
Not so many years ago a "farmer" was about as fearful a thing (term) as one could apply to "anybody who blundered, stumbled or 'got in bad'." But what would the average man say that week says today if somebody wouldn't tell him, "You farmer?"

Wouldn't he throw his chest out and swing a snuff as broad as if he owned a gold mine? He certainly would. The farmer doesn't wear his hayseed in his hair any longer. He sells it and buys an automobile.—Galesburg Mail.

Of course, it may be true that the farmers are as prosperous as stated above and that some of the "crazy" city clerks would be flattered if called a farmer, but isn't it stretching the facts a little to say that a farmer can carry enough hayseed in his hair to buy an auto?

Making Good.
"La Follette has made mistakes during his long political career. But he has made good and he is making good," says the Eau Claire "Globe," a dyed-in-the-wool La Follette paper. If La Follette has "made good" in anything besides seeming political positions for himself, it has not been discovered in performance. The stage lost a clever actor when he decided to go into politics, and the world gained nothing but perdition.—Wausau Record-Herald.

A born demagogue, a destructive, not a constructive politician. Setting off his oratorical fireworks with one eye on the gallery and the other on his lecture bookings.

A COUNTERFEIT QUARTER

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Deacon Wrenn, widower, hesitated between two women, Miss Brown, a spinster of forty, who owned a house and lot, and the widow Norman, about the same age as Miss Brown, who owned a farm.

One day the deacon got stuck on a counterfeit quarter. The next time a tin peddler came along he offered it to the man in charge.

"Don't look right, deacon."

"Oh, I guess it's all right," was the reply.

"Lots of counterfeit around."

"You needn't be afraid of that."

It wasn't a square thing to do.

The deacon knew it, and the peddler knew it. The peddler pocketed the coin and went away, but he made up his mind to get even. At the next house he stopped at he was told that the deacon was hanging off between the widow and the spinster, and he thought he saw his way clear. Three days later he returned and halted on the road opposite to where the farmer was hoeing corn. The deacon came walking out to the fence to say:

"Hollo, you accepted that quarter you'll have to keep it."

"Oh, it isn't about the quarter. I just wanted to tell you a bit of news. You know the old maid Brown in the village, don't you?"

"Seems to me I've heard of her," replied the deacon in his cautious way.

"Well, an uncle of hers in California has died and left her $15,000 cash. She's keeping it mighty quiet. She wants some one to marry her for love instead of money."

Half an hour later the deacon was hitching up to drive to the village. Two hours later he was saying to the blushing old maid:

"Sarah, I'm alone and lonely. I've concluded to take another wife. Will you have me?"

Sarah could have said "Yes" in a second, but Sarah was no spring chicken. She also weighed and balanced things. She'd said "Yes" to two different men before, but with no witnesses present, and they had left her all forlorn. Therefore she replied:

"Deacon, I respect and admire you and believe you to be a sincere man. Think of this matter on your way home and then write me a letter."

The deacon jogged home and took his pen in hand and wrote. He didn't wait for the mail, but sent his message to the village by his hired man. It was straight talk, and the written answer was "Yes."

Four days had passed when the peddler appeared again. Deacon Wrenn was out in the woodshed dyeing his whiskers. As for hair, he was so nearly baldheaded that it wouldn't pay to fool with. He suspended operations to hear the peddler say:

"Another bit of news for you, old man, and you mustn't give it away. You've heard of the Widdor Norman, mobber?"

"Yes, kinder heard."

"Got two children and never hoped to find a stepfather for 'em, but this is a world of change. It seems she had a brother in New England who hadn't been heard of in twenty years. Well, he turned up his toes the other day and left her $30,000 in cold cash. She's keeping still about it. There's a windmill man making eyes at her, but she won't let on until she knows he loves her for herself and her five sore eyed young uns. Don't breathe a hint to put him on to the dough."

The deacon promised and finished his dyeing. As he dyed he thought. He thought of the difference between $15,000 and $30,000. An early hour in the evening found him at the Widow Norman's. They talked crops and weather for awhile, and then, with her two fatherless children standing around with their mouths open, he stated that he had long and secretly admired the mother and desired to make her his wife. She wouldn't believe it at first, but his assurances finally prevailed, and she said yes. For an hour afterward the children took turns sitting on their step-father's lap and pulling his dyed whiskers, and they called him "poppy" as he departed.

It has been said that Deacon Wrenn weighed and balanced things, and it may surprise the reader that he should tangle himself up with two engagements. He had figured it out that he could square things with the old maid for $1,000 or for double that at the most. This would leave him $28,000 clear, and that was a good enough bargain for any man. In a week he married the widow, and on the same day he called and offered Miss Brown a thousand big dollars. She drove him from the house in indignation. Then he learned that his wife had no brother to die and leave her even 15 cents and that no windmill man had ever wanted her. He had just charged her with conspiracy to defraud an innocent hearted man when he was served with a summons in a breach of promise suit, and when the case was finally called and tried it cost him his farm to make good the verdict. And when one day the peddler met him in the road and halted to say:

"S'more news, but don't give it away. If you can get a divorce from your wife I can locate a widder who invested in Texas oil stock when it was only 5 cents on the dollar and has held on to it until it's now selling at—"

"—your widder and you, too?" replied the deacon as he passed on. He didn't even stop to pick up the counterfeit quarter thrown after him.

Monarch Was Not Fastidious. Frederick the Great made a satisfactory meal on salt beef or pork and cabbage.

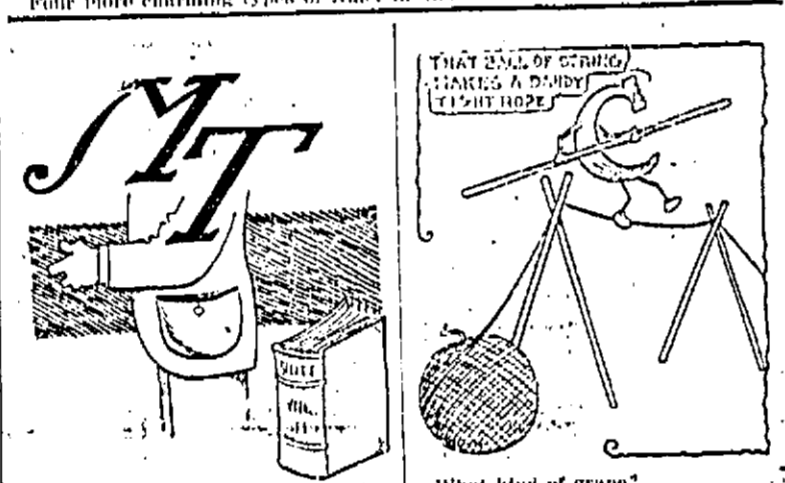

FOUR TYPES OF AMERICAN YOUTH AND BEAUTY.
Upper Left—Miss Carrie Clint. Upper Right—Mrs. H. F. White. Lower Left—Miss Alma Myers. Lower Right—Mrs. Herbert Sparrow.

Washington, D. C.—In society circles at the national capital these four ladies share the distinction of being among the most beautiful types of American womanhood. Miss Carrie Clint is the daughter of United States Congressman Cling of Indiana. Mrs. H. F. White, daughter of Postmaster General of Washington, is one of the spring brides and is now away on her honeymoon. Her marriage to Mr. H. F. White of Cambridge Springs, Pa., was solemnized last week. For a number of years she has been the reigning beauty of Washington society.

Miss Alma Myers has been receiving much attention during the past winter and early spring months. She is visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. C. Neel, of California. Mrs. Herbert Sparrow, wife of Lieutenant Sparrow, will be lost to Washington society a large part of the next three years. Lieutenant Sparrow has been ordered on sea duty and his beautiful young wife has arranged to meet him at different points over the world. Even beauty would be hard to find. Four more charming types of American in the entire United States.

Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus and taken last year when the admiral was on the right Major General P. J. Osterhaus, U. S. A., retired, the admiral's father. From a photograph is the only living northern soldier who commanded an army corps during the Civil war.

Oakland, Cal.—The appointment of Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus as the commandant at Mare Island yard comes as news of interest, not only to the navy, but to a wide circle of friends of the distinguished naval officer on the Pacific coast.

Rear Admiral Osterhaus comes from fighting stock. His father, Maj. Gen. Peter J. Osterhaus, U. S. A., retired, is the only living survivor of the Civil war who commanded an army corps during the rebellion. The senior Osterhaus is now 87 years old and is living at Dulburg, Germany, with a daughter.

Rear Admiral Osterhaus was captain of the battleship Connecticut, which was Admiral Evans' flagship on the famous cruise of the battleship fleet.

Among the close friends of Admiral Osterhaus, is Colonel Herman Hengel of Oakland, honorary president of the German-American league of California, a veteran and brother officer in the Civil war with General Osterhaus.

"The son follows his father as a type of man who has given his splendid talents to his country," said Colonel Hengel today. "I am sure that his service at Mare Island will reflect nothing but greater credit upon a name now distinguished in the annals of American history."

Little Deeds Important.
It is sometimes good to be content with doing little; the great and splendid occasions in which a man can benefit his country are few; the humble duties by which her benefit may be advanced are of daily occurrence.—Sydney Smith.

Killed in Queer Accident.
A somewhat remarkable death took place recently in one of the large towns at Truslast, Staffordshire, England, used for firing pottery, the deceased being Albert Cotton, aged 23. A man named Enoch Goodwin went up a ladder to the top of the over when he fell and alighted on Cotton killing him on the spot.

When it comes to flagging on 1910 baseball possibilities, New York fans seem like to have the world think that their Highlanders are to cut something of a figure in the American league pennant chase. But New York's chances look pretty slim, for anything better than a second division berth. On two or three occasions since New York was a member to the American league in 1907 the club has been in the first division. In 1907, Clarke Griffith got a bunch together that pulled fifth place. In 1904 the Highlanders were right on Boston's heels, and it was not until Jack Chesbro made a wild pitch on the final day of the season that they were shut out of the flag and dropped back to second place. In 1901 the club was again the runner-up to the champion Boston Sox, but since that time baseball history has been disastrous. In 1903 the club got away with a swell start. Then came internal trouble, the desertion of Hal Chase and the resignation of Manager Clarke Griffith. In 1909 George Stutz took the team, and while his team was never a pennant contender, the others were led to believe that they could play on several occasions. This year the Yankees have not been strengthened to any extent and will have an almost impossible task probably to land in the first division. By far the greatest star of the New York team is the first baseman Hal Chase, considered the peer of all first sackers in the country. There isn't anyone else that looks like a shining light at this stage of the game. Gardner, who was tried out last year, is one of the second base job, while Knickerbocker is to hold down the shortstop. Another star, and one of the greatest men, is the catcher and a Creole or Creole, and he will probably start in the outfield with Madden hustling them and Daniels to be considered later in the season. The catching staff should be helped by the acquisition of Lou Criger to help out Klenaw, Warhop, Manning, Doyle, Orth, Lajo, Hughes and Crumm are the mainstays of the pitching staff.

Chicago, Ill.—As the touch of the Velled Prophet in St. Louis designates a queen of love and beauty who shall reign for a year, so in Illinois and Farmers' Institute, the household is chosen and her authority in matters of the home is unquestioned.

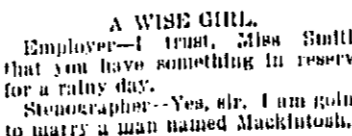

The selection is made at the annual Farmers' Institute, the household science department having been an important auxiliary for 12 years.

At the meeting attended by 8,000 visitors, Mrs. Dunlap, wife of Senator H. A. Dunlap, of Savoy, was chosen president. Mrs. Dunlap was hostess at the Illinois building at the St. Louis World's fair, and has since occupied a high social position in the Prairie State.

Mrs. Dunlap has for years been an earnest advocate of the instruction of girls in the useful household arts. She is an authority on cooking, sewing, and the arrangement and care of all departments of the home. She has been a lecturer and demonstrator at conventions for a dozen years, and it has been largely through her efforts that the department of household science in Illinois has spread throughout all of the 102 counties. In recognition of this she was chosen president at the state convention last week.

Madam Dampier believes that no girl is so much to be pitied as she who, no matter what are her attainments in art, literature or the social sciences, is fitted to preside in a home unless she is equally well versed in the knowledge of how to prepare a meal, attend to the rooms, etc. She does not mean that girls who are fortunate to have servants should do these things, but she believes and urges that every one of them should know how to do everything about the home.

Hunger for Religion. No matter how intellectual or practical men may be, they hunger for religion, for a theory of life and for a proper understanding of the relationship which should obtain between them and their Maker. Their nature is responsible for this hunger, and it can not be ignored any more than the hunger of the stomach for food or that of the mind for knowledge.—Jewish Voice.

Latitude for Criminals.

1. The Russian Lion gives a roar; he's coming over to this shore to vindicate his former fame, and elevate the wrestling game. His last appearance was a lottch; when next he mixes things with Gutch, the sports will learn then, well enough, that Russian Lions are the stuff. The Lion gives the reasons that caused him to quit when on the mat, with Gutch a year or two ago; his health had run extremely low; he should have had a doctor's care, instead of straining like a bear. A colic had settled on his lung, and he had fur upon his tongue, and ringing noises in the ears, and he had jaundice, it appears. And he had lost the northern charm he always wore upon his arm. And late upon the fatal day, he met a black cat on his way. A dog had howled the night before discordantly, before his door. A one-eyed woman cast a spell upon him; that was why he fell. But now the hoodoos all are gone; he is the same old boy of brawn; if Gutch will have another try, he'll make Gutch crumple up and die. And so the Russian Lion comes, with tooth of horns and head of drums; but dead game sports the line will draw on the floor. The Lion stuffed with straw.

Overcame Rarefied Atmosphere.
While Prof. David Todd, the astronomer, was on the top of the Andes, nearly three miles above the level of the sea, he worked for a time in a great iron tank about six feet square, into which he had air forced until the atmosphere within was about the same as that at the level of the sea. The compartment was lighted by electricity and was connected with the outer world by telephone.

The Privilege of Age.
One of the few advantages of increasing years lies in the consciousness that we shall one day be able to give advice instead of receiving it. No one would dare advise a man of 60, unless it might be his wife, in which case he would not listen to her, while the person who would think of advising a woman of 40 does not exist—Ladies' Field.

I do not object, but I think it might have been put differently."

The Cause of Colds

Good Advice Regarding the Prevention of Coughs and Colds

If people would only fortify and strengthen the system, the majority of cases of coughs, colds and pneumonia might be avoided. These troubles are frequently due to weakness, which produces a catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane, which is an internal skin of the body. When this skin is weakened, it becomes easily infected with germs which cause many of the diseases to which flesh is heir. Healthy mucous membranes are essential safeguards of the body's general health.

An excellent aid in the prevention of coughs, colds, pneumonia, and such like infectious diseases, is a remedy that will prevent or cure catarrh.

We have a remedy which we honestly believe to be unsurpassed in excellence for the prevention of coughs, colds and all catarrhal conditions. It is the prescription of a famous physician, who has an enviable reputation of thirty years of cures gained through the use of this formula. We promise to make no charge for the medicine should it fail to do us we claim. We urge everybody who has need of such a medicine to try Rexall Mucin-Tone.

It stands to reason that we could not afford to make such statements and give our own personal guarantee to this remedy if we were not prepared to prove the reasonableness of our claim in every particular, and we see no reason why anyone should hesitate to accept our offer and try it. We have two sizes of Rexall Mucin-Tone, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Sometimes a patient is so weak that to give marked relief. As a general thing the most chronic case is relieved with an average of three large bottles. You can obtain Rexall Remedies in Jameville only at our store, The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

I REALLY don't see how Philip can possibly afford it, but I suppose he bought it because he knew how terribly I wanted one. I'm sure I've hinted often enough. Anyway I'm awfully pleased to have it," said a young girl to me the other day as she showed me a beautiful silver bag, a birthday gift from her fiancé.

If Philip some day should stand from his employer I think the girl who allowed and even desired him to give her presents which she "freely didn't see how he could afford" would certainly be a partner—seems to me a senior partner—in the crime.

George Coleman, the young Massachusetts bank clerk who was arrested charged with looting the Cambridge National bank of $180,000, had been working for several years on a salary of about $12 a week. During that time he was engaged for several years and in the course of the engagement gave the girl besides beautiful presents of all sorts, four or five diamond rings, a diamond locket and several similarly magnificent presents.

It seems to me that girl is almost as guilty morally as George Coleman.

Any girl who knows a man well enough to accept anything from him more personal and expensive than love, flowers or candy, ought to know him well enough to have a pretty good idea of what his financial resources are.

And no girl who knows what a man's financial resources are ought to be pleased when he gives her things or does things for her that she knows cost more than he ought to afford.

The cases in which such extravagance results in dishonesty, of course I realize, are one in ten thousand but that one must be someone's, and no girl ought to risk it being hers.

And then, too, dishonesty is not the only bad result of foolishly extravagant gift giving.

In a report by a committee which had been investigating the methods of salary loan sharks, the fact is stated that many young men get into the clutches of these abominable creatures by borrowing to make extravagant Christmas presents.

The interest on such loans is very high. Two young men have told me of paying, one double, the other triple, the original amount in interest before the loan was repaid.

Accepting extravagant entertaining is as bad as allowing extravagant gifts.

Dinner for two at a first-class restaurant, theatre tickets for two and a big bunch of violets for one mean the major part of a ten dollar bill gone, and no girl ought to accept such entertaining from a man earning an average salary more than once or twice in a season.

There are so many simple, inexpensive diversions that give just as much pleasure. For the winter there's snowshoeing, skating and coasting and for the summer, canoeing, and all-day tramp, punctuated by a dainty lunch for two, can be made fun winter or summer.

The man who continually accepts a girl's hospitality without ever entertaining her or doing anything for her, certainly earns the title of "freelance companion," and is certainly one kind of pest.

But the girl who actually hints for and eagerly expects expensive presents and entertainments from a man she knows can't afford them, is a worse kind of pest and might be called "freelance destroyer."

Ruth Cameron

Egotism and a desire to pamper wife led to robbery and murder. Martha B. Blackstone and her confessed slayer, Bertram Gage Spencer.

Springfield, Mass.—The self-confessed slayer of Martha B. Blackstone and the masked burglar who has terrorized Springfield for the past two years, presents one of the most complicated problems in psychology of recent years. After twenty-four hours merciless grilling, Spencer this week confessed to the heinous crime which came as a climax of a wild career when last Thursday he murdered Martha Blackstone. He lay his downfall to his mind for stealing, which he claims is caused by an injury to his head in boyhood, to his love of excitement and to his desire to pamper his pretty wife.

In his amazing confessions, although many of the details are being withheld until the trial, Spencer makes it clear that associated with his overpowering desire to stand were an intense love of excitement and a high degree of personal vanity. This latter trait Spencer gratified by bullying the police and reading the newspaper accounts of his exploits. The accounts of his daring crimes fascinated him and fostered his egotism. The police declare he is a morphia fiend.

An element approaching the romantic entered into Spencer's crimes. He coupled with his other motives was a desire to obtain money elsewhere for his purchase elaborate furnishings for his home in West Springfield, thus furnishing a handsome setting for his young and pretty wife, for whom he bore a strong affection.

While admitting the killing of Miss Blackstone, Spencer said he did not intend to shoot her, but had lost control of himself when she repeatedly shrieked. Even then he asserted, he had fired only to frighten her and the three other women who confronted him in the home of Mrs. Sarah J. Dow.

Spencer was arraigned in the police court and was held without bail for further hearing April 15. It is believed that he will be held for the May term of the grand jury.

Immediately after his arrest Spencer was put under a "third degree" examination by the police and this examination ended only with his confession, nearly a day later.

Spencer told the police that he had experienced no qualms of conscience as a result of his crimes. The only thing that caused him any worry was

SUMMER BLESSINGS.

By MARY RUSSELL.
The summer is coming. What are you going to do to help more people feel the summer in the heart?

Have you a country home—then why not set aside one week in which to entertain your washer-women? Let her bring her children and make the time one that she will never forget. If you fear that your dignity is not strongly rooted so to stand the contact with your own washerwoman, exchange with your neighbor and let her try yours. If you decide to do this, don't try to make the expense out of the visitor by setting her back in the household, but treat her as an honored guest. See that she has leisure to enjoy the beautiful world, that was made for her as well as for you. Think this over and let it get to weigh as heavily on your conscience that you cannot enjoy the beauty about you till you share it.

When you invite guests who can just as well pay for their entertainment, there is something selfish in the invitation. Either for personal pleasure, or for the pleasure of those about you, you extend the invitation. It is a game of give and take. But to give, expecting no return save in the happiness you bring to some one who otherwise would go without—that is giving as Christ would give.

Think it over and see what you can do. One summer colony planned to invite a set of neighbors from a poor district. These first neighbors were congenial, and such pleasures and parties as they enjoyed it would be hard to find. They brought to that pleasure all the advice of the child with the deep need of rest and enjoyment of the older person. It was a summer of blessed memories to them and helped make sunshine on many a winter's day.

If you have been placed in a pleasant place try to look upon it as only lent to you to share with others.

Let your happiness radiate among those less fortunate. To succeed in such plans, however, you must use judgment. A quipsome woman will ruin all the plans come to naught and yet who may need the rest more than others. Study the subject. Make friends among the women who need you, and when they begin to trust you your plans will make themselves.

Children who need an outing are easy to find—if you really desire to find them. And nothing on earth responds to kindness like a child.

When one thinks of all the children in the world to whom summer only brings a greater and more unbearable change of temperature, one sometimes questions the wisdom of the plan that parents such things to be. And yet it is a part of the great plan, and if we see our duties plainly a greater understanding may come to us of all that the mystery means.

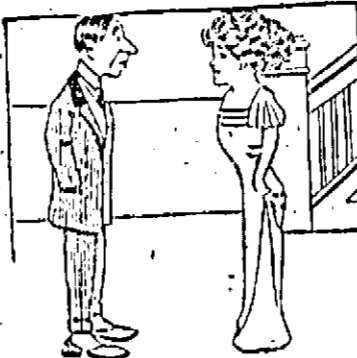

Don't be afraid to have your own children learn to be kind to the little sisters and brothers. It will help them to a better understanding of life to see how the other side lives and they will be more grateful for the blessings which grow by being shared.

in a turbulent session of the house of debates the cry of "Dynamite!"

flashed up with the house of lords!

Down with the house of lords!" came vehemently from the various parti-bitter and intense since 1885. From pled cheers from his supporters followed Premier Asquith's departure from the house. Suddenly a voice cried: "Why don't you cheer John Redmond?" This was followed by three cheers for the unionist and Nationalist. William Redmond,

brother of John Redmond, and Stanley

Wilson, Unionist, were about to come to blows when John Burns interposed.

TAFT'S SPEECH IS HISSED

WOMEN DISAPPROVE OF PRESIDENT'S REMARK AT SUFFRAGE CONVENTION.

GIVES HIS VIEW FRANKLY

Tells Them He Fears Granting Their Demand Would Bring Undesirable Female Voters to the Polls—He Rebukes Hisers.

Washington, April 15.—President Taft was hissed while delivering an address of welcome at the convention of the American Woman Suffrage association last night. The manifestation of disapproval was not unanimous, but it was pronounced. It interrupted the president's speech, but did not discomfort him. He waited a few seconds for the tumultuous salient of reproach to subside and then finished what he had to say.

President Taft was welcoming to Washington the delegates to the convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association.

Franklin in His Opposition. He had frankly told them that he was not altogether in sympathy with the suffrage movement and was explaining why he could not subscribe fully to its principles. He said he thought one of the dangers in granting suffrage to women was that the women as a whole were not interested in it and that the power of the ballot as far as woman is concerned would be controlled by the "few desirable class."

When these words fell from the president's lips the walls of the convention hall echoed a chorus of feminine hisses. It was no feeble demonstration of protest. The combined hisses sounded as if a valve on a steam engine had broken.

Has Rebuke for Hisers.

President Taft stood unmoved on the platform during the demonstration of hostility—for the hissing continued but a moment—and then, smiling as he spoke, he answered the unfavorable greeting with this rebuke:

"Now, my dear ladies, you must show yourselves capable of suffrage by exercising that degree of restraint which is necessary in the conduct of government affairs by not hissing."

The women who had hissed were rebuked. The president's reply apparently had taken hold. There were no more hisses while the president continued his address, which he characterized as "My Confession," on the woman question.

At the conclusion of his talk he was enthusiastically applauded and some of the leaders of the convention expressed to him their sincere regret over the unpleasant incident. President Taft assured them that he had not had his feelings injured in the least.

Crackmen Leave But $20 in First National of Spring City.

Spring City, Tenn., April 15.—Robbers blew the vault of the First National bank at this place and escaped with an amount exceeding $10,000. Nitroglycerin was used in the explosion. Bloodhounds soon were placed on the trail, but thus far the safe-blowers have not been apprehended. There was $10,000 in the bank vault, and in the morning only $20 was found. One of the robbers shot at St. Paul, assistant cashier, as he ran to the institution after the explosion. Paul was unhurt.

MOVES FOR CORRUPTION PROBE.

New York Senate Adopts Resolution to Carry Out Hughes' Idea.

Albany, N. Y., April 15.—Without debate and without a division the senate adopted a concurrent resolution providing for the broadest possible inquiry into past corruption in accordance with the recommendations made in Governor Hughes' special message Monday night. The resolution was sent at once to the assembly, where despite the known opposition of machine leaders, it will undoubtedly be passed. The investigation will probably be taken up as soon as the session is over.

COSTA RICA CITIES WRECKED BY QUAKES

Thousands in Panic Flee from Homes to Hillsides for Safety—No Loss of Life.

San Jose, Costa Rica, April 15.—During the past twenty-four hours a series of earthquakes has rocked Costa Rica, and damage estimated at more than $1,000,000 has already been done.

So far there has been no report of loss of life, but the people in the cities are panic-stricken and are abandoning their homes for the hillsides.

In all there have been more than thirty shocks. Property in San Jose to the value of several hundred thousand dollars has been destroyed, but it is feared that it will total far more than this, as the vibrations of the earth have not yet ceased.

The government ordered a suspension of general business until such time as safety is assured. The banks and public institutions have been closed and trade and commerce are at a standstill.

The first shocks were of slight intensity and caused little alarm, but later they became much more violent and even the sturdiest buildings were shaken to their very foundations. In several instances weaker buildings were partially wrecked and many persons were slightly injured.

Communication between the various towns has been interrupted and details of the damage done at these places are lacking.

THREE DEAD IN NORTHERN PACIFIC FREIGHT WRECK

Six Are Injured and Half Dozen Unaccounted For—Train Jumps Rails.

Spokane, Wash., April 15.—Three men are dead, six are missing and six probably mortally injured as a result of a wreck on the Northern Pacific railroad three miles west of this city.

It is supposed that the mangled remains of the missing will be found in the tangled mass of wreckage. Disembodied hands and feet were picked up by the trainmen and tramps half a mile away.

Partial List of Victims:

Dead—Three unidentified men; bodies recovered.

Missing—Clarence Smith, Webb City, Mo.; George Harmon, Webb City, Mo.

Injured: — Sayres, John Mack, Kanawha City; Leslie Harmon, Webb City, Mo.; John Carr, Roy Johnson.

Eye witnesses state that a freight train not under control, and which had reached a speed of 60 miles an hour, was suddenly seen to leap into the air and disappear in a cloud of dust and debris.

The train was east-bound in charge of Conductor H. J. McDonald and Engineer Arthur Lewis. Both escaped injury by jumping. They say the disaster was due to a defective rail or a broken wheel.

When the flying cars approached the curve the heavy load of bridge timbers, instead of moving with the cars, toppled them over.

The wreckage was strewn along the track for half a mile. Twenty cars were reduced to kindling wood. Traffic was tied up for 15 hours.

Most of the men came from Kansas and Missouri and were miners and structural iron workers making their way east.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

On the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott For the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

(Copyright, 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.) April 17th, 1910.

The Question of John the Baptist.

Matt. xi:1-19.

Golden Text.—But the witness which I have is greater than that of John: for the works which the Father hath given me to accomplish, the very works that I do, bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me. John vi:28, (R. V.).

(1.) Verse 1.—Jesus appears to have taken great pains to instruct his twelve disciples, but why did he not leave them to be instructed wholly by God's Spirit?

(2.) In the case of preaching, or prayer, or testimony, does God propose for us just to "open our mouths and he will fill them," or that we should be as thoroughly and humanly prepared, as if there were no God?

(3.) Does thorough preparation for Christian work, show lack of faith, or strong faith in God? Why?

(4.) Verses 2-3.—Why did John ask this question as to whether Jesus was the Christ?

(5.) What, if any reason is there to believe that John was now wrestling with doubt, as to the truth of what he had been preaching concerning Jesus?

(6.) What would you say concerning a man of God teaching spiritual truth, in one period, which he knew to be true, and subsequently having grave doubts of the very truth of which he had been so sure?

(7.) Does any kind of doubt on the part of a holy man, necessarily imply sin, or show weakness?

(8.) Is doubt a necessary part of God's training or not, for men of strong character and important work?

(9.) Verse 4.—Why is a man bowed down with sorrow, and crushed with disappointment, not in a condition to properly weigh evidence of spiritual truth?

(10.) Jesus said, "Go and show John again those things, etc." Is evidence of spiritual truth made more forcible through being repeated on different occasions, and whether or not, why was it necessary to repeat to John what he had already heard?

(11.) Why would it not be a blessing to the people if a minister repeated his most effectual sermons?

(12.) Verses 5-6.—Jesus laid stress in that day upon his miracles, coupled with the fact that he preached the gospel to the poor, as the proof of his Messiahship, but what is the supreme or chief proof to-day? (This question may have to be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(13.) Even suppose the miracles of Jesus should prove to be historical myths, would that detract in any measure from the grandeur of his character or the greatness of his work?

(14.) Verses 7-8.—What influences caused John to live such a plain, or rigorous life? (See Matt. iii:4, et seq.)

(15.) Take for example two men, one devout, the other godless, one living in a richly furnished home and dressing in good clothes, the other living in a plain home and wearing coarse apparel, which of the two is more likely to be the godless man, and why?

(16.) What was the difference in the mode of the life of Jesus, and that of John the Baptist?

(17.) Verses 9-11.—What were the minimum qualities essential to being a prophet, and in what particular did John exceed these?

(18.) In what did the greatness of John the Baptist consist, from the standpoint of Jesus?

(19.) If Jesus had in mind a "greater" and a "greater," then in what two senses is this word used by him here?

(20.) Verses 12-15.—What is religious "violence" and what is the nature of the "force" which captures the kingdom of heaven?

(21.) Verses 16-19.—What caused them to denounce John for qualities, the absence of which in Jesus they also denounced?

Lesson for Sunday, April 24th, 1910.

Warning and Invitation. Matt. xi:20-23.

TWO GIRLS SWALLOW ACID; DIE.

Chums Commit Suicide, But No Pact Between Them Discovered.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 15.—Mildred Brown, aged thirteen years, and Naomi Hayslett, aged seventeen, chums and schoolmates, committed suicide within a few hours of each other, each by taking carbolic acid.

While the Brown girl killed herself admittedly because she had been unable to retain high standing in her class at school, the Hayslett girl killed herself because she was in love. No trace of a suicide pact can be found, though the Hayslett girl knew of the death of her friend and apparently hastened her own suicide.

Mildred was small for her age, while Naomi was large, and the strangely matched pair were almost inseparable. They each were orphans.

Demand Bible Resign.

Jackson, Miss., April 15.—In open session last night the state senate by overwhelming vote demanded the resignation of Senator Hilbo, President Pro-Tem, Hebrew then resigned and was followed from the chamber by several other senators, also supporters of Vardaman.

OIL BURNER FOR STOVE

Enables Housewife to Burn Coal Oil Without Danger of Explosion.

Epitaphs have been written to those who used oil on coal stoves, but through the ingenuity of two Oklahoma men it is now possible to burn coal oil burner equipped with any stove and to use it with out any fear of being blown through the window. A pan fits in the stove and has a burner cup in it. Attached to the wall near the stove is a reservoir containing the oil supply and a pipe from this line the burner cup, the flow from the reservoir to the cup being regulated by a stop cock. There is also a vent-latter which acts as an outlet for the gases, which otherwise would produce combustion, and protect the housewife or cook against accidents. Where the coal fire has become low and it is desired to have plenty of heat at short notice, an attachment of this kind will be found very convenient. Or, if there is not much cooking to be done, the stove can easily be heated from this oil burner stock.

SOCIALIST MAYOR OF MILWAUKEE AT HIS DESK.
EMIL SEIDEL.

Emil Seidel, who was elected mayor of Milwaukee on the Social Democratic ticket, was born in Pennsylvania forty-five years ago. With his parents he came west when he was a year old. He lived first in Prairie du Chien, later in Madison and then in Milwaukee. He received a common school education, and at the age of 13 learned the trade of furniture carving. In 1880 his father sent him to Germany for his health, and he remained there six years. In 1891 he returned to Milwaukee and joined the Social Democratic ranks. He is secretary-treasurer of the Milwaukee Pattern and Manufacturing company. Mr. Seidel was the Socialist nominee for mayor in 1908. In 1908 he was elected to fill the unexpired term of the late P. J. Steglbauer as alderman-at-large. His term expires on April 19, when he will assume the duties of the chief executive of Milwaukee.

SCHOOL BOY VICTIMS OF COCAINE HABIT.
Michael Glumac, aged 13, and three other unfortunate victims.

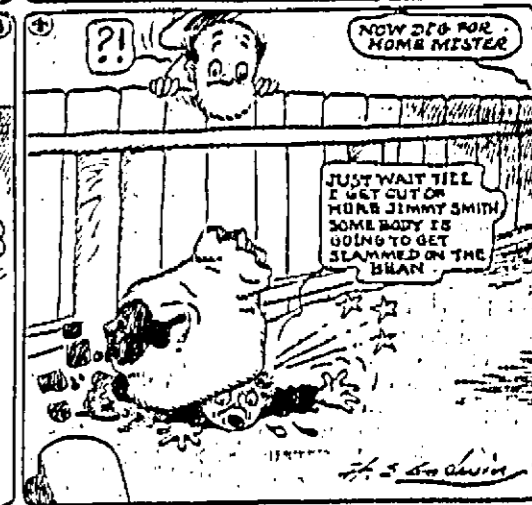

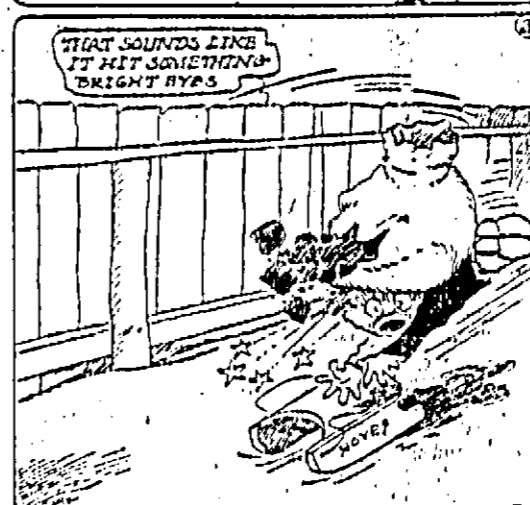

Philadelphia.—The evidence produced by the state pharmaceutical board in their fight to stop the sale of cocaine has established even those most familiar with conditions in the great cities. Two essential facts stand out. Cocaine or "coca" as it is called by the boys, is easily secured. Hundreds of boys and young men are addicted to the habit. Dozens of school children have been called to testify and their stories are most pathetic. The efforts of the board will be directed not only to obtain convictions of the "coca" peddlers, but to show how the traffic has made wrecks of decent men and women, fostered crime and contaminated even the innocent boys and girls who fill the public schools of certain sections of the city. It early became evident that the "men higher up" who have reaped the profits from the traffic are going to fight hard to prevent the conviction of the dealers and the smashing of the trade that must inevitably follow. The defendants were represented by Attorneys John R. K. Scott, John W. Parker, and O. Edward Dickinson, Assistant District Attorney Joseph P.

most recent purchase was made two weeks ago. "What do you do with the stuff when you get it?" he was asked by Attorney Rogers. "Open the package, smash the crystals, powder it and snuff it up your nose," he answered. "And what does that do to you," was the next question. "It sets you crazy, I guess," was the answer. Napoli declared that he was breaking himself of the habit and hadn't Practical Shape in Draid and Satin.

A hat warranted to withstand the effects of dampness and the assaults of dust clouds and which at the same time looks eminently smart, is seen in this one of dark brown fancy braid. The satin-faced rolling brim of moderate width shows the calfskin from all sides and the rather low but broad crown is trimmed with a large bow consisting of four braid loops widely banded with satin. The gown of champagne tulle, fine English mohair is soutache braided in self and has a yoke of dotted white net.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Jamesville Daily Gazette, April 15, 1870.—Jottings.—By the Episcopal church the present week is called Passion Week, and next Sunday is Easter Sunday—the closing of the Lenten season.

At Ridgefield station, between Woodstock and Crystal Lake on the C. & N. W. road, one hundred cords of wood in one pile on fire, it was with great difficulty that trains could pass the fire. At last, however, the fire had been somewhat subdued and strong hopes were entertained that it would be effectually conquered unless the wind should be too high.

District Court in Milwaukee, the jury returned a verdict of $5,000 for the plaintiff. This amount is the full extent which the law allows in such a case.
